SELECTED EXPERIENCE

Graduate Research Assistant Emory University	August 2023 – to date Georgia, USA
- Conducting research to advance trustworthy machine learning and AI alignment for automated clinical movement disorders assessment systems in the ViTAL lab and the Emory Motion Analysis lab. - Developing deep learning models for tremor detection, Freezing of Gait evaluation in Parkinson's Disease, and motor assessment in infant Cerebral Palsy using wearable and motion capture data. - Auditing bias in clinical machine learning systems to advance equitable healthcare delivery.
Data Scientist Dalberg Data Insights	January 2021 – June 2023 Kampala, Uganda
- Building algorithms and designing experiments to merge, investigate, and extract data to supply tailored reports to clients. - Using machine learning and statistical techniques to produce solutions to problems.
Research Intern IBM Research	June 2019 – September 2019 Nairobi, Kenya
- Conducted research on algorithmic fairness of benchmark machine learning models used in dermatology. - Implemented experiments on deep learning models for image classification, and segmentation in Pytorch. - Contributed to a novel approach for evaluating skin tone bias in dermatology image datasets, found and reported that performance for benchmark skin disease diagnosis models is uniform across skin tone categories.
